It takes no prophet to say that Hon. William T. Creasy will be chosen the Democratic nominee for Lieutenanted for the place there was a consensus of Democratic sentiment that Mr. Creasy would most appropriately fill the position and that he would bring reat strength of his own to the ticket.

"Farmer" Creasy was born in Catawissa township. Columbia county. in 1856, was educated in the public schools, Catawissa Academy, and the Bloomsburg State Normal School, and Jegan teaching school at the age of 16. Born on the farm, and naturally inclined to country life, he soon engaged in tarming and fruit growing. and became known far and wide as one of the most progressive farmers in the State. He joined the Grange movement and als natural talent for organization and his enthusiasm for the cause of progressive farming led to a rapid rise within the organization and finally to his election as State Master a position that he has held ontinuously for many years, with the esult that the Pennsylvania Grange is one of the strongest and most advanced in the Union. At the recent meeting of the National Grange, Farmer Creasy was conspicuous as an advocate of the progressive cause before that body and fought splendidly, side by side with the progressive Grangers of other States to sustain the eftorts in behalf of the farmers made by the Wilson administration.

Mr. Creasy has always been active in politics in his local community and has served in various capacities as an elective official. He became a Statewide figure following his election to the Lower House of the Legislature in 1895, where he served continuously until 1911. In 1889 he was the Democratic nominee for State Treasurer and in the same year became the caudidate of the Democrats of the House for Speaker of the House In 1901 and 1902 he acted as Chairman of the State Committee, in 1906 was the Fusion nominee of the Democratic, Lincoln and Prohibition parties for Auditor General.

During his service in the House Mr. Creasy was one of the most effective champions of all progressive reforms. and for years was the recognized spokesman of the opposition to the Penrose machine at marrisburg. As a parlimentarian he had few equals on the floor during all his term of service, and when he entered the fight it required the strongest efforts of the machine to defeat his plans. He was always an advocate of liberal legislative rules in order to permit more! freely of the consideration of measures demanded by a minority of the House. and he was called into consultation at the opening of the last session when the Democrats proposed a reform of the rules, which were finally adopted.

His long legislarive career has peculiarly fitted him to preside over the State Senate. long known as the graveyard of progressive legislation, and with "Farmer" Creasy in the chair the people of the State would feel assured that honesty would prevail in that chamber and the people would have a chance to be heard.

National Pride.

The belief that all foreigners are inferior to one's own people is not peculiar to the so-called civilized nations. Professor Sumper of Yalo used to call this national egotism 'ethnocentrism.' and cited an instance of it from a message sent south by a native Greenlander, extelling his land and its inhabitants as greatly superior to the countries and races of white men. In the Journal of Retigious Psychology the anthropologist Crantz is quoted as saying:

"The Greenlanders consider themselves as the only civilized nation in the world. They are far superior in their own estimation to the Europeans, who supply an inexhaustible | ly one of them said, after every ruse subject of saillery for their social parnes. They do not appreciate the atlitude of arrocant superiority adopted | but to wait." by many white men in their interlourse with so-dilled savages."

Prosperous Modiste Knew How to Make Clothes, but That's Not Secret of Her First Success.

How one dressmaker got her start in New York is the pet story of the woman who started her.

"She rented two rooms on the first floor of a Ninety-fifth street house," the woman said. "I occupied the floor above. I had seen her sign in the window for several weeks before I saw her. One day I met her in the hall. Two days later she called at my

"'I'm in an awful pickle,' she said, 'and I am going to ask you to help me out. There are two ladies downstairs who want some dresses made, but before they give me the order they want to see some of my work. With the exception of my own clothes-and you cauld pack all of them into a bandbox -I have nothing to show them. I find it very hard to drum up trade here. I haven't had a customer since I moved into this house, and I will lose those Governor at the May primary. Would you mind letting me have them for a few minutes? I will return them as soon as the women go away.'

"The pure nerve of the girl stagger-

'But you didn't make my dresses,' I said. 'They were made by a dressmaker, who runs a very fashionable

'So I supposed,' said my neigh-'Are they marked with her

"'No,' said I, 'that woman's style is her trademark, and I ought not give another the benefit of it.'

'The girl stood just there and looked at me, and the pitiful drooping of her eyes and mouth appealed to me more effectually than any words. The unshot of the matter was I loaned her five of my newest best gowns. Naturally the callers were delighted with them, and gave the girl a large order for summer clothes. I worried myself sick over the affair.

"'What will you do.' I said, 'if you turn out poorly made garments? How will you square yourself?'

"'I shall not need to square myself," she said confidently.

"And she did not need to. Her work, instead of being botchy as I had expected it to be, was beautiful. All she needed was an introduction, and after she got that, through gowns made by a fashionable dressmaker, her reputation and a good income were easily made.'

Explaining the Telegraph.

As a general rule, the telegraph no longer arouses the wonder and awe that it did in our grandfathers. In remote countries, however, there are still people who have never heard of it, or who are unable to understand Das Echo tells of the perplexity that the telegraph caused in a small village of Bosnia.

The government had installed a telegraph line from Prijedor to Bihatsch. "What is the meaning of this wire?"

asked the astonished inhabitants of a village through which the line happened to pass. "It is a telegraph." said the headman of the village, who had been in consultation with the officials. "One can send a message along this wire, straight from here to Stamboul."

The villagers were incredulous. "That is impossible. How can a message run along a wire?" The headman thought awhile: then he hit upon the proper explanation. "Imagine," he said. "a dog that is terribly long, and whose tail is stretched like the wire on these poles: imagine that his tail is so long that he reaches from here to Stamboul. Now, suppose we pinched his tail here. Wouldn't he howl in Stamboul?"

The villagers understood.-Youth's Companion.

Bit of Strategy.

Two men borrowed a horse and carriage to take them to a distant pond on a fishing trip. Arrived at the pond the men, by the exercise of great patience, although neither knew a harness from a whiffletree, managed to get the harness off the horse, after which they tied him to a tree with a neck balter.

The fishing over, the men set to work reharnessing the horse. They found that they could manage every thing but the bridle. They simpl couldn't get the bit into the horse' mouth, for he wouldn't open it. Finalhad failed: "Well, pardner, there's nothing to it

"Wait for what?" asked his friend. "Why, for the confounded animal

$1075 Electric Light and Self Starter $950

TOO many people are fooled or misled by taking bare automobile prices as a positive indication of the instrinsic value of a car. This is exactly the wrong way to go about it. Because one article is priced higher than another it does not follow that that article has a greater value.

Take two cars practically identical. The ouethe $950 Overland. The other is the average similar car priced at $1200—which offers no greater value.

As a matter of fact there are any number of $1200 cars which are not, in value, the equal of the 5950 Overland.

But how are we to know this? you ask.

That's simple. Ask some real questions; find out some actual facts; make some specification comparisons - and then it is the easiest thing in the world to sum up the intrinsic value of any car made.

For instance:

The S950 Overland has a wheel base of 114 inches.

The wheel base of the average S1200 car is no longer than this-often shorter. So in this respect you get more for $950 than you do for $1200.

The S950 Overland has a powerful 35 horsepower motor.

No $1200 car has a larger motor than this. Here is equal value and, in most cases, more value for less money.

The $950 Overland tires are 33 inches x 4 inches—all around.

No S1200 car has larger tires. Again —equal value—our price $250 less.

The $950 Overland has a complete set of electric lights-throughout-the same as on most $1200 cars. Some outof-date cars still cling to the obsolete gas lamps. In the first instance the $950 electrically lighted. Overland is the value equal of the S1200 car, and in the second instance has more value than the S1200 (gas lamp) car. In either case

Next comes the matter of equipment. The So50 Overland is complete ---a jeweled speedometer, top, curtains_ boot, windshield, electric horu---every thing complete. No $1200 car made has more complete or bester equipment.

And so on throughout the car. Point for point---specification for specification, the $950 Overland is, in every essential respect, the equal of any $1200 car on the market.

So we warn you. Ignore the prices Compare the actual facts first. Then oompare the facts with the prices and you get the intrinsic value.

We are making 50.000 cars this year---the largest production of its kind in the world. And every Overland purchaser will save at least 30 per cent, and get a superior car.;

See the Overland dealer in your town today. Theh see any competing car. Make the comparisons we suggest. Then you will better realize how hard a comparison of this kind is, on any other car costing in the neighborhood of $1200.

Phone our dealer for an appointment, while the matter is fresh in your mind.

But made the owner of the suitcase unthe released convict as mute witnesses to his past. "Reform the prisoner," say some.

Associations have been founded with this beneficent object. John Hawes smiled bitterly at the thought. He a paltry sum to provide comforts for his sick wife. He was as honest at heart as before his temptation arose. But during the two months that had elapsed since his release he had been hounded down by the detective force whenever he sought to earn an honest living and to forget the past. Three times he had obtained situations, only to be told, at the end of the week, that his services were required no longer.

His wife had never visited him in prison. He had never seen his son. Minnie's last words to him before they took him away had been of forgiveness; but Minnie's father was not the type that can condone having a jail bird for a son-in-law. He had taken her away, and Minnie, for the boy's sake, had had to accept his dictum that she should choose bewealth and a future for little Frank and poverty with an ex-criminal Hawes had never been able to find any trace of her.

Now, desperate and bitter, he ate his cheap meal in silence. The last of his money was gone. And sinister voices had been whispering in his

There was "Red," who had served a half a dozen sentences for burglary. He had shown Hawes, with whom he had been in the penitentiary, in a rough, well-meaning way the folly of trying to live down his past.

"They say it don't pay," said "Red." 'Who says it does? Who wouldn't live a straight life if he had the chance? But what chance has a man who's done time, with the bulls ready to tip off his boss by Saturday night?

They Talked in Whispers.

What's the use when a man's only chance is to run crooked, unless he wants to starve?" That night Hawes had yielded to the temptation. He had seen "Red." "Red" knew that a man of Hawes' address, a gentleman, in spite of his past, would be of use to him. Together they might pull off a job or two. For instance, there was the new big house up Marsden way. The old guy who lived there wouldn't put up much of a fight, even if he woke, and it was said he had a dinner service of solid silver, and his wife had jewels. So much "Red" had learned from prowling about the neighborhood. If Hawes didn't join him he was a fool. Hawes agreed to join him. He was waiting for "Red." and before he had finished his meal the man came in. They talked in whispers. Soon the plan was arranged. "Red" was to wait at the rear of the house with the baker's cart he knew where to obtain. Hawes was to enter the dining room window. Of course, "Red" was expert at effecting entrances of his worth and get a little practice.

It regained accurate timing, for of course the cart could not stay more than a minute of two in the same place. There watches were set to-

Scientists Give Great Luminary 400,-000 Years to Beach Apex That It is Making For.

In according with the recognition of two independent streams or drifts of stars, and the discovery that the sun belongs to one of them, a revision became necessary of the determination of the path of the sun in space. L'Abbe Moreux sums up in Scientia the recent work which has been done in ascertaining what is called the solar apex, beginning with that of Professor Kopold of Kiel, who was the first to bring to light in 1908 the systematic error which has been introduced in all previous determinations of this point.

It is clear that this error might become considerable if while the sun were moving toward the apex of its own path it were also part of a swarm of stars moving with it. The redetermination of the direction of the sun's gath among the stars has been accompanied by a new investigation -of the speed at which the solar system moves in space. The new investigation, which has only been undertaken systematically since the beginming of the century, depends for its results on the application of the principle that the wave length of a ray of light must alter according as the source of light is moving toward or away from the observer. To apply it to the particular problem before us it becomes necessary to compare the radial movements of a large number of stars situated in the direction followed by the sun with the radial movements of the stars which the solar system is leaving behind.

Movements of approach would be in the majority in the first case: movements of departure would be dominant in the second. By striking a mean, relatively to the movements of the stars employed in the calculation, the speed of movement of the solar system might be arrived at. When all the new determinations are correlated the following seem to be the results which embody the sun of observations up to the present time: That the sun is being carried in the direction of the constellation of Lyra, probably aiming at a point in the neighborhood of the star Vega, and a little to the south of it; and that the speed of its path is somewhere between 20 and 24 kilometers a second. If Vega were no farther away than our nearest neighbor Alpha Centauri. the sun would reach its goal in 70,000 years at latest, or 56,000 years at earliest. But Vega is nearly six times as far away, and the solar apex will not therefore be reached for some 400.000 years.

DETERMINE COURSE OF SUIT WASTED WEALTH OF COUNTRY

All Kinds of Game Has Been Indiscriminately Slaughtered Throughout Labrador.

The fish, flesh and fowl of Labrador, writes Dr. Grenfell in the Wide World, have been exploited to the last degree, and no scintific or practical effort has been made for their protection or rehabilitation. Our auks, curlew, ducks and many other birds have become either extinct or dangerously depleted. Our deer, owing to forest fires caused by carelessness and unrestricted slaughter by Indians, as well as white settlers, have so far diminished as to bring semi-starvation to doors where once there was always plenty. The destruction of seal herds has brought families once affluent to miserable poverty. For some reason our unrivaled herring and mackerel bave left us altogether. The salmon catch is only a shadow of what it once was, and even the returns of our still valuable cod fishery show increasing uncertainty in quantity and distribution. The growing number of trappers, the lack of protection, or the destruction of their food supplies, has made the annual winter for hont insufficient to maintain in comfort all who prosecute it, and that in spite of the immense increase in the price of pelts. Seals and whales are rapidly approaching a similar fate.

No mines are yet opened; no timber properties yet developed, and no use is made of our unlimited water power. Only a handful of visitors come to enjoy the wild scenery, the unique natural conditions, and the invigorating atmosphere, though our fjords rival those of Norway, and have the additional attraction of being virgin and unexplored. No charting has been done, and at that time, as already stated, there was not one light on the coast from the straits of Belle isle to Hudson's bay to render navigation safe. It is little to be wondered at if adequate tourist steamers do not ply in our waters. In fact, Labrador is in that melancholy stage of evolution that must inevitably overtake every country until attention is turned to the development of industries that man does not share with the tiger and the shark.

Boston Man Who Bought the Space Was Accused at the Time of Wasting Money.

Frank A. Allen of the firm of Allen & Paine, engaged from 1860 to 1863 in the manufacture of women's cloaks on Devonshire street, is the oldest Journal advertiser living today. The Journal was the firts paper in New England to print a full page advertisement, and this came from Mr. Allen in

"At that time," Mr. Allen said a few old King of Wurttemberg takes many | days ago, "so large an ad was almost long walks along the shores of Lake | unheard of in a Boston or New England newspaper. With the exception of Roger Benner's advertisement of his New York Ledger, I do not recollect any other occupying so large a space. I remember very well some of our friends thought us foolhardy and on the high road to ruin because we jumped into the advertising proposition to such an extent, and we were accused of throwing away money, and particularly for throwing away so much money for one ad, and in a single paper.

"The result, however, proved that we were not fools."-Boston Journal.

In and Out of Damascus Buildings. The hotel is called the "Grand Victoria," but it is above a blacksmith shop and a saddle shop. The lower stories are mostly blank, bare walls. From the upper stories project balconies of latticed oriels, some of which extend so far over the street as to make it easy for the veiled damsel of the harem to leap across.
